City of East Chicago Presents Operation Stay Smart

The 2014-15 school year for East Chicago Schools will find a newly developed strategy to deal with truancy in which they have dubbed "Operation Stay Smart". The concept is to stay in school, stay smart and realize your dreams. For the past several months officers have teamed with Mayor Anthony Copeland, City Attorney Carla Morgan, East Chicago City Judge Sonya A. Morris, East Chicago School Superintendent Dr. Youssef Yomtoob and his staff of administrators & educators, as well as the Board of School Trustees, so as to develop a plan to alleviate a growing truancy issue in the city. In the interim, Mayor Copeland has pledged overtime funding that will result in officers addressing truancy issues each week. This school year promises to be a special one and we look forward to working with you to keep our kids on the right path.
